Afraid of His Love

I have received a new revelation. God loves me.

Oh yes, I have accepted Jesus and fallen in love with His precious being. Father God, however, remained the God of the old testament. He was to be worshiped for sure but He was the God to be feared. He was the God of "tough love" and wanted me to straighten up and fly right. That thought kept me from entering into all that He has for me.

I had divided the substance of God and His substance cannot be divided. It is forever in unity as One. The triune God is in perfect agreement. It was the Father God who willingly sent Jesus and Jesus who was willing sent - perfect agreement. Jesus said "He who has seen me, has seen the Father." John 14:9 (NKJV)

I know it's silly to have thought this way. Perhaps there are others of you that are keeping the fullness of God at a distance, hoping you will become good enough for the Father God. We can never be. The revelation is that Jesus was good enough and we have entered into Him. Now let us fully enter into the Father and all that He has for us. Truly become sons in His image.

Glory to God in the highest - Who Was and Is and Is to come.
Even so, come quickly Lord Jesus.
